

User Experience

One person sits down and rotates the right color, the fabric in front of him/her will raise up to create a privacy study area on the table.

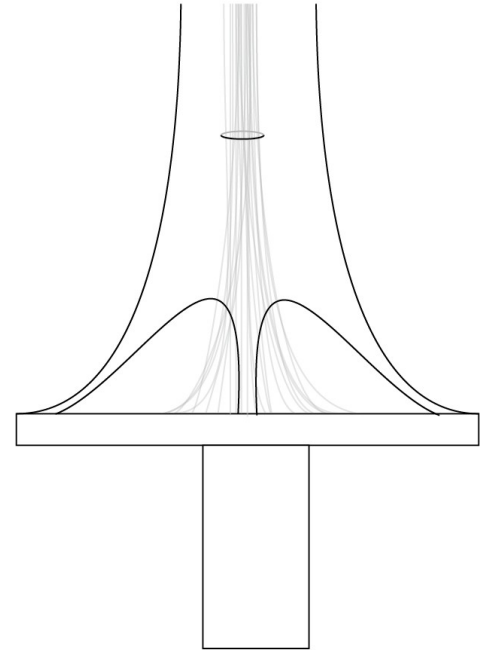

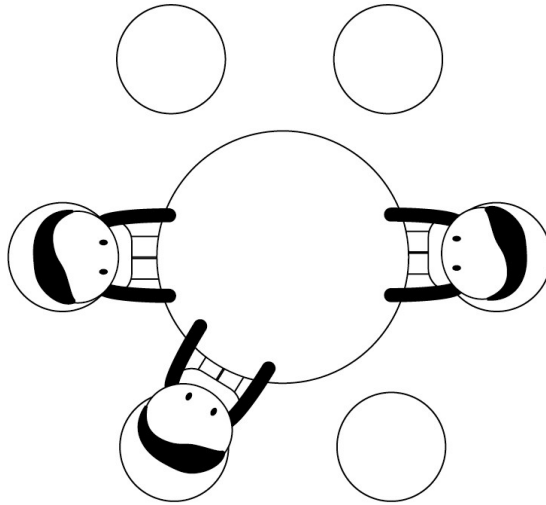

User Experience

The second person sits down and rotates the right color, the fabric in front of him/her will also raise up to create a privacy study area on the table.

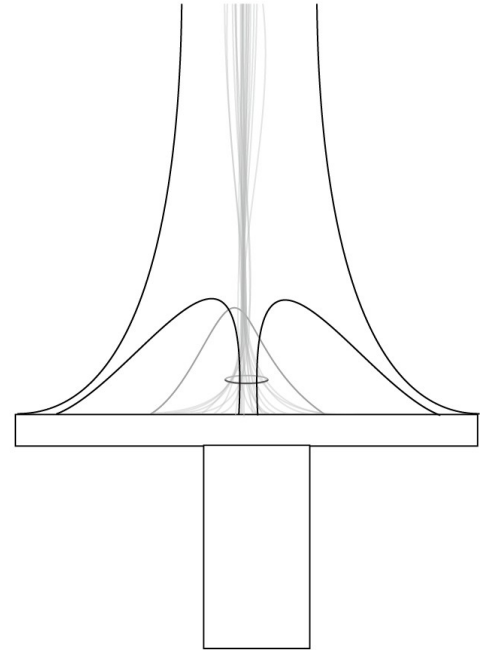

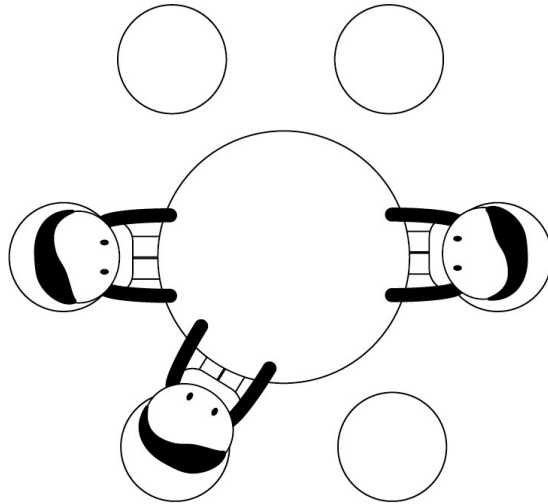

User Experience

When someone sitting in the opposite side, they cannot see each other clearly because the ropes inside the fabric will block their vision.

User Experience

5 minutes later, a ring drops down from the top to the bottom and makes all the ropes closer to the center. Users then are able to make eye contact with others sitting in front of them.

User Experience

If six users sit down and they have all the correct colors, the fabric will be fully raised and the ropes will not block the vision. This table will now provide an open area which is a sociopetal space for all the users.

